HISTORY OF THE TROUBLES.

The decision of the Tennessee Supreme Court in the convict labor case has thrown the eastern part of that State into confusion. The troubles began last July when the miners rebelled against the further importation of convicts, who were gradually dispossessing them of their jobs, and threatened to turn the prisoners loose. The militin was sent to Bricevile, but was captured by the miners and sent back to Knoxville. The Governor of the State then began to negotiate. The convicts were allowed to return, the miners kept quiet and the Legislature was convened to repeal the convict labor law. But the Legislature refused to do this and adjourned, leaving the matter where it was. The miners then appealed to the courts, but have been defeated. The only remedy now is in the next Legislature, but it is very doubtful if a repeal can be secured because the revenue is needed by the State, and Middle and Western Tennesseeans who do not feel the convict curse are not disposed to relieve the grievance of the mountaineers.

Secretary Blaine seems to enjoy the excitement of having so lively a crontroversy on his hands at the outset of his return to work. He feels fully capable of taking care of it, and is receiving little advice, except the warning of the President to go slow and treat the Chilians with forbearance. The fact that the Chilian situation was not discussed at likely to grow an early reorganization of the great length at the Cabinet meeting is the best proof that there is nothing new in re-

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 .- A cablegram from Santiago says that the Chillan authorities show no disposition to recede from the defiant attitude which they assumed in the answer to the communication from the State Deportment at Washington in regard to the assault on the members of the crew of the United States cruiser Baltimore. Fedro Montt, the representative of the Provisional Government at Washington, sent a cable dispatch which was received to-day, urging the Junta to adopt a conciliatory policy and to move with great caution, but his advice has apparently had no effect. Up to date there has been no sign of an apology for the assault on the Baltimore's men, and no reply has been made to Minister Egan's request for an immediate investigation of the affair. While the American and other foreign residents fully realize the gravity of the situation and are fearful of other and perhaps graver complications, the Chilian public appear to have no conception of it. Beyond the meager facts which have been published in the local papers, they are, as a rule, ignorant of what has occurred. Much surprise is felt here among the Americans that the San Francisco has not joined the Baltimore at Valparaiso.

Several foreigners who witnessed the recent fight are ready to testify that Boatswain's Mate Riggin, the only man who was killed outright in the fight, was shot by a policeman. Local papers steadily refrain from commenting on the affair. The funeral of Turnbull, the man who died from the effects of wounds received in the attack, was not attended by any of the Chilian officials except an escort of police, who were sent to preserve order. Capt. Schley of the Baltimore has applied to the Intendente of Valparaiso to protect the officers and men of his ship who are obliged to go ashore on necessary business. The Intendente replied that he was unable to give any advice relative to the Baltimore men coming ashore. He evades the question of protection altogether. Capt. cluded and rejoined the waiting newspaper men.

Mr. Julio Foster is a Chilian only by adoption. He is a native of the United States, married to a Chilian lady. His son is the Intendente of Valparaiso. He has done a great deal of talking since the diplomatic controversy has been on, and is ranked among the strongest of American haters of his nation. He declares, however, that he has been persecuted by interviewers, who have put their own words into his mouth. He does not feel the hostility towords the United States which his printed utterances seem to indicate. With regard to his rebuff at the State Department, he said to-day, that he went with his colleagues only for company and hardly expected to see the Secretary. He admits that he would have been gratified had he been received, but he understands the delicacy of the situation and is not surprised at the course of the State Department officials.

It is his intention to remain in New York for a few days longer and then sail for Europe. What his future movements will be he does not now know. They will depend upon the turn of affairs in Chill. He hopes, however, that as soon as matters are settled he will be permitted to return to his native land unmolested. Although Senor Vicuna bears his misfortune with fortitude, it is easy to see that he is greatly worried about the welfare of his wife and daughters.

Vicuna is accompanied by his nephew, Senor Custodia Vicuna, former Minister from Chill to Peru and Bolivia, and by his two sons, Senors Jorge and Henry Vicuna.

Claudio Vicuna was in Valparaiso during the battles which preceded the fall of that city. On the morning of the fight at Priscilla he and Gens. Barbosa and Alcerrecca, who were killed shortly afterward, breakfasted in the Subercasseaux wine cellars at Vina Del Mar. Senor Vicuna seesage from Valparaiso was of a most sensational character. With Godoy and Fuentes, two of Balmaceda's Ministers, he was in the Intendencia of Valparaiso when a frenzied mob of their enemies surrounded the building.

to talk, telling the bystanders that he was getting old and useless, and had as well be dead as not.

About 2 o'clock that afternoon while Will-lamson was still enjoying the cot in the Salvation Army room, a man named Goodnight rode to town and informed the officers of the finding of the body of Jefferson Moore, an old farmer residing two and a half miles southeast of Sedalia, and intimating his belief that Williamson had made away with the old man. The report was made to Constable Robert Ramsey and he at once had a guard placed in Williamson's room, and summoning the Coroner, Dr. W. C. Overstreet, and accompanied by a correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, drove to the Moore farm. The house was an old affair, consisting of three rooms in a row, under the easternmost of which was an old disused cellar, the wails of which in places had caved in. The cellar was reached by a doorway from the outside.

When Constable Rumsey and his party reached the scene they found that the searching party headed by Mr. Goodnight had, by digging in the soft dirt, uncovered the body of Jefferson Moore, which was lying face downward. The remains were lifted up from the cellar and laid upon the ground outside. The man's skull had been crushed and the body dragged to the cellar and tumbled in. To hide the evidence of his crime, the murderer had hauled dirt from the field and thrown into the cellar.

For a week neighbors who knew the Moore household had missed the son, a young man 29 years old. Williamson had been living with the two for some months, and when asked as to the whereabouts of the young man, he replied that he had bought the son's interest in the farm, and the latter had gone West.

Both bodies were taken charge of by the Coroner and brought to town.

As soon as Constable Ramsey returned to the city he placed Williamson under arrest. The man at first denied any knowledge of the crime, but later said that he had been hired for $300 to kill the two men. He could give no reason, except that he wanted the men out of the way. The farm is a poor one, and the Moores had very little property.

After Williamson's incarceration it was shown that he was also a wife murderer, having killed her while living on a farm six miles from Sedaila. The body was found buried in the garden near the house, shortly after Williamson's arrest.

Williamson was indicted at the November sitting of the Grand-jury in 1890, and at once employed Capt. E. J. Smith and City Attorney Cushman to defend him. The case was heard at a special term in February, 1891, of the Pettis County Criminal Court, and Judge Ryland sentenced him to hang March 20, 1891. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court and a stay of execution granted pending investigation. That tribunal affirmed the decision of the lower court and fixed the day of execution for Aug. 21. The first day was work is steadily gaining ground and the out-look for next year is very promising. Nine of the employes of the State associations have resigned during the year, while eighteen other men have accepted positions as gen-eral secretaries, physical directors and assist-ants. There are now forty-two associations, as follows: City and town, 20; college, 15; railroad, 4; German, 2; colored, 1. Thirty-six of these report a membership of 7,283. Thirty of them expended $63,407 for current expenses last year. Nine own buildings and real estate valued at $450,150. Twenty-two report an average daily attendance at rooms report an average daily attendance at rooms of 1,421. Thirty-five report an average weekly attendance at Gospel meetings of 1,850. Twenty report an average weekly attendance at Bible classes of 277. Twenty-six report 787 at Bible classes of 277. Twenty-six report 797 young men seeking religious counsel, and 212 additions to the church. While the reports are encouraging, still the great numbers yet untouched by this movement show the field before its workers, for in the State are nearly half a million young men. About 45,000 are communicants in Protestant churches, but not 199,000 of them attend church with any regularity.

During Friday afternoon the subject of dist organization and work was discussed by Wm. Boyd of Kansas City, this being folded by the consideration of the collegistion. Mr. Hugo Von Hagen of St. Louistion. spoke enthusiastically of the German work and its possibilities. A novel feature was a German song rendered by the large delegation from St. Louis.

Dr. Jesse, President of the State University, in a few choice words showed his sincere interest in the association and its efforts among college students. A solo by F. H. Jacobs of Hannibal was much appreciated. A very delightful reception was tendered the delegates by the members of the Hannibal Christian Endeavor Societies.

SYSTEMATIC SMUGGLING. Revealed by a Wreck-A Murderous Smuggler in Texas.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 .- The recent wreck of the steamer El Dorado on the banks of the Bahamas has been the unexpected means of bringing to light what the Custom-house officials in this city believe to be an extensive and systematic smuggling scheme, which has been long continued and exceedingly renunerative to the smugglers. A grav feature of the case is the suspicion that cer-tain officials in the San Francisco Customnouse appear to be involved, unless all signs fail, in the way of conniving at the fraud. fail, in the way of conniving at the fraud. The Treasury Department at Washington has been communicated with as to this aspect of the swindle, which did not come to light until within a day or two, and Secretary Foster, in the interest of the Government and honest importers, will undoubtedly hold a rigid investigation. There is nothing to show that the customs officials at New York are to blame, for the reason that the fraud was in the class of goods which the law permits to be entered in bond and transported free of duty.

owing to the reticence of the detectives of Owing to the reticence of the detectives of the special Treasury Agent's officer of this city, whose investigations are not yet concluded, it is impossible to learn all the details which they have unearthed. For instance, the name of the New York consignee of the smuggled goods has been suppressed. But the story substantially is as follows:

There arrived from Germany on Aug. 1 on the steamer Alier, from Bremer, nine cases of goods consigned to Sternburger & Meyer of San Francisco. Being well known in the Custom-house as "1. T." goods, that is goods for immediate transportation, the cases were not opened by the Custom-house officials of this port and were allowed to be transhipped in bond of the El Dorado, which was to take them to New Orleans, where they were to be shipped by rail to San Francisco via the Southern Pacific Railroad. The law provides that "1. T." goods cannot be opened and appraised until they reach their port of destination.

When the steamer ran ashore all the cargo ination. When the steamer ran ashore all the cargo that was saved was brought back to New York and the nine cases in question, being foreign goods in bond, were taken possession of by the customs officials in order that the contents might be appraised and the duty exacted.

Then came an important discovery. The nine cases had been entered at the New York Custom-house as containing linen towels, valued in the aggregate at $944. The cases were marked "S. &C. K.," and numbered from 98 to 106 inclusive. When they were opened at the appraisers' stores it was found that only three of the nine cases contained linen and that the other six cases concealed fine kild gloves, which had been worth before they were damaged by water in the ship much over $10,000. The attempt to smuggle had been deftly managed. For instance, case No. 98 contained towels, but case No. 98 was filled with kild gloves. So was No. 100, while 101 was towels; 102, 103 and 104 kild gloves; 105 towels and 106 kild gloves. This distribution was made by some one having a knowledge of the practice of the Custom-house officials in selecting packages for examination at the appraisers' stores.

Custom-house was privy to this arrangement. The smuggled goods would undoubtedly have gone through without detection if it had not been for the accident to the ship. KILLED TWO OFFICERS. fragile ledge of rock. Towards this the explorers went, and then started a series of narrow escapes, terrible dangers and great obstacles, almost unequaled in the history of modern climbing.

Several times during the first day Dr. Hayes slipped and twice narrowly escaped a fearful death. Both times Schwatka's arm saved him. At the end of the second day Hayes, who had so far carried his box of instruments with great difficulty, was compelled to abandon them.

At the end of the third day Schwatka was almost shoeless and the feet of all the party were bleeding. They still struggled on over ice and protruding rocks, the air getting colder all the time. The party slept in blanket coats, huddled up together for warmth. The middle of the fourth day they got to a rise in the hills and discovered that the future course would be a descent. The descent was rapidly made, and then the explorers continued across the country at a slow pace till they struck some rapids and embarked in an impromptu cance in another adventurous part of the journey, shooting the torrent through a great canyon of solid rock, faced in many places with pure copper. Only the narrowness of the way saved the party from certain destruction, and as it was they all were terribly bruised and shaken up by the experience.

After passing the rapids and going over a fast tributary of the Copper, they reached the Indians again at the fork of the Copper, and for the first time in six weeks tasted flour or tea. The Indians took the party with them to the ocean and the trip of exploration was over.

The specimen contains 97 percent of pure copper, and is to be taken to a party of capitalists in New York, who will, it is believed, at once start to develop what Schwatka declares is the richest copper mine in the world.

Another bill taken up at random was one giving the Missouri Pacific Railway Co. the right to lay a side-track. All that was said about the bond was that the company should "file its penal bond with the City Register." Not a word about sureties.

"The thing for the Assembly to do, "said Register Wherry, "is first to carefully word the bond clause in every franchise bill that is passed so as to make the companies keep their fown bonds in good condition, after furnishing securities, and next to pass a general ordinance making it the duty of some officers of the city to examine corporation flonds at certain intervals, just as is done with official bonds now. The disposition of the committee was very plainly shown just before the meeting of the House yesterday when the protesting property-owners were heard. fore the meeting of the House yesterday when the protesting property owners were heard. There were a score of them, several of them women. Nobody appeared in favor of the bill except belegate Egan, and belegate o'Brien in speaking against the measure made a point of that. John Bain, a Dickson street jeweler, told the committee that the house that Egan intended to sell to the city through this bill was so old and worthless that taroaulins had to be used to keep out the rain. Mr. Bain accused the committee of willingness to rob the people on Dickson street for the sake of a colleague. This stung Delegate Egan, who was lounging on the committee table, and he straightened up and began to say that there were others who wanted the street opened. "The curse o'God will out on you. Immy the committee of God will out on you. Immy the committee of God will out on you. Immy

O'Brien.

'The curse o' God will out on you, Jimmy Agan,'' said a woman dressed in black.

'You're a disgrace to your race.''
The committee will decide next week whether the bill shall be reported or not.

Mr. Arnstein Prevents Investigation. Councilman Albert Arnstein is a disappointment to the members of the Council's special Investigating Committee. This is composed of Councilmen Nelson Cole, W. P. Anderson and William Cullinane. While the bill selling part of the Mullanphy fund property on Virginia avenue to the Blow School, to be used as a playground for the children was pending in the Council, Mr. Arnstein had a talk with Mr. Anderson about it, and during that conversation it was suggested that an investigation of the condition of the trust would be a good thing. Last night, as the hour drew near for the Council to go into session, Mr. Anderson sat at his desk, now and then glancing anxiously across the chamber to the desk of Mr. Arnstein, who was late.

"We should like to investigate the trust," said he, "and Arnstein told me he would move to have us do it if he came to the meeting. We can't get at it without such a motion, you know."

Mr. Arnstein afterwards came in and heard Secretary W. H. Little read the opinion of City Counselor Marshai that the conversion of the real estate to be sold into city funds was legal. He voted with the rest for the passage of the bill, too, but never a word said he about an investigation.

Councilman Cole said after the Council meeting: "We could sell all this Mullanphy property and turn it into funds by an ordinance. In that way we would stop repair bills, and the city would get taxes from the special Investigating Committee. This is

For this reason the passage of this bill to-night cannot fairly be taken to mean that other Mulianphy property will be treated in the same way. An investigation ought to come before anything more is done in that direction."

CATARRH AND CONSUMPTION

The Predictions of the Weather Prophets Regarding the Coming Winter Carry Their Own Admonition.

When the tendency of the catarrhal progress is evidently to the chest and lungs, and the hacking cough, loss of flesh, pains in the chest and failing strength give their unmistaken evidence of a predisposition to consumption, the patient should spare no pains and lose no time in arresting what is practical and imminent danger. 'It all came from frequent colds. It is about eight years since the trouble began. about eight years since the trouble began. I seemed to have a cold all the time. Then I began to have terrrible headaches, so bad I could scarcely hold my eyes open; could not sleep for the pain. I would think at times that the intense pain would surely craze me.

MRS. ETTA L. KLAGAS, 6914 MANCHESTER ROAD. 'My nose was always stopped up. Mucus dropped in my throat, causing continual hawking and spitting. My throat and nose were so sore and dry and pained me so I could hardly stand it. Had distressing cough and severe chest pains extending to shoulder blades and back. My appetite was gone. I had to force everything I ate, and it did me no good. My stomach was all deranged and would not digest it. I became constantly weaker and was so run down my friends all said the school election is not that of a convention or of a political boss or slatemaker. Its only proper function and its only object is to aid the people as best it better men in the places of those whose terms are expiring.

Therefore we cannot comply with the requests of many of our readers to make for them a list of the candidates whom they should vote for at large and in their respective districts. We decline because we sincerely believe that, where there is a choice between good men, the great body of voters will be more competent to make the proper selection than anybody else. With all the light the press can give them, they possess as a body a larger fund of information about local men and things than any editorial force can be expected to the several school districts for example. The Post-Dispatch's revelations have hown the voters that they ought to beat every member of the present board who is running in any district for re-election. But the question how to do this is likely to be most wisely decided when left to the resident voters, who best know the comparative worth and strength of the several anti-ring candidates. While urging a confitness and strength offer the best guarantee, the POST-DISPATCH might hinder rather than help such concentration by undertaking to name a candidate for

As for the two tickets at large they are both anti-ring tickets, nominated on nonpartisan platforms pledging them to reform the abuses which all parties and all good citizens hope to wipe out by this election. the Republican ranks. The only choice between these two tickets, therefore, is a choice of men from both tickets where the voter is not satisfied to take either straight. Where a voter thinks he can select from these twelve nominees the six best men on both tickets, the six who will attend most faith. fully, earnestly and ably to their duties, that is the thing for him to do. Without saying or intimating that the four less wellknown nominees may not be equally worthy, the well-known character and standing of four men on the Democratic ticket, HUTTIG, LANGE, BLAIR and LUCAS, and of four men on the Republican ticket, SMITH, FISSE, HOLTHAUS and BROCKMAN, are a guarantee that the voter can make no mistake in supporting any six of them.

RECKLESS EXPENDITURES.

In the face of the fact that the funds in the public school treasury were at such a low ebb as to render an increase in the school tax alnost imperative this year, certain action of the School Board at the beginning of the current school term was somewhat remarkable. That action consisted first in a reclassification of a score or more of schools in a way expenses of the public scool system by necespals and teachers already employed at those ools and the addition of other teachers to the staff of the schools reclassified. The second tep taken in this line was a corresponding increase in the salaries of school janitors of those and other schools, the result of this general advance in salaries, and increase in the force being that the public schools of St. Louis are now under heavier expense than ever before in their history. A CASE FOR THE GRAND-JURY. Although the evidence of fraud in

Although Director Edward J. O'Connor's peculations in the name of Fuller & of Chicago have been exposed that pachydermous politician has been going bout pointing with pride to his soiled record and reiterating his denial that he is connected with Fuller & Warren or in any way interested in "furnace rackets." If Mr. O'Connor imagines that his bluff will not be called he will find himself very much mistaken, for absolute proof is now at hand to demonstrate, not only that he is the agent of the Chicago stove firm, but that the contracts supposed to be executed by Fuller & Warren are really performed by O'Connor the concern, is the real contractor and chief beneficiary of all contracts-and more, that, School Board form a striking instance of the not satisfied with his contracts, he has made practice of selling outright, from his own stock, material for construction and repairs

O'Connor paid me for the extra work on Sunday. O'Connor kept shady about his work on the schools and did not let me know any more than be could help, but it was generally understood in the shop that Fuller & Warren contracts were put in by O'Connor.

FURTHER CORROBORATION.

August Butz is a tinsmith and stoveman doing business at 1926 Franklin avenue, and living at 1514 North Twenty-fifth street. Mr. Butz is a man of family, a householder, reputable citizen, well thought of in his ward, and vouched for by a large number of business associates. Until about a year ago Mr. Butz was outside foreman for Edward J. O'Connor, and had charge of the men engaged in setting furnaces and executing the Fuller & Warren contracts. Mr. Butz was outside foreman for Edward J. O'Connor. He charges that material and supplies were taken from O'Connor's place in O'Connor's wagon, and that O'Connor's men, paid off by O'Connor every Monday night did the work. Mr. Butz is in the midst of family affliction, and an extended and minute statement from him will have to be deferred for the present.

Does Mr. O'Connor raise his bluff? The Post-Disparch has evidence from no less than three other former employes equaly convincing and damaging, which will be printed if Mr. O'Connor only desires it.

Both of these jobs he did for Jno. F. Lonergan of 218 Locust street. His enmity against Anderson Bros. can be explained because he did not get the contract for the Board of Education building which they are building, and that is the reason they were not awarded the High School contract, though they were the lowest bidders, which is a matter of public record.

GET OUT YOUR 'OVERCOATS. Night.

A Cold Wave Will Strike St. Louis To-Winter overcoats will be in demand toorrow. The prolonged spell of Indian summer which has proved such a boon to the young man minus an overcoat will come to an untimely end to-night, if Weather Bureau prophecies can be relied upon. There is every reason to believe there will be a decided change in the temperature this evening. The cold wave started in the far Northwest last Thursday, causing a fall of from 20 to 40 deg. It took a southeasterly direction, striking Western lowa, South Dakota and Nebraska. The intensity lessens as it moves eastward. Thursday night the fail in temperature around Forts McKinney, Assiniboine, Buford and Rapid City was from 25 to 40 deg., while last night the decline was only from 10 to 25 deg. High winds arose last night in the far Northwest and destroyed the Signal Service stations at Lander, Rapid City and Forts Buford, McKinney and Assiniboine, so that no reports were received from there to-day. The storm then moved eastward to Minnesota and will strike the Upper Lake region to-day, causing severe storms on the lake to-day. There was a drop of 10 deg. at Kansas City last evening, 10 at Keokuk and 18 at Davenport, Io. If no switch-off occurs the wave will strike St. Louis by nightfall and will hold on until Monday, by which time it is expected the temperature will have fallen fully 15 deg. decided change in the temperature this Bain Just Made Public-Too Late to Take the Name Off the Ticket-The Ratification Meeting - Progress of the School Board Campaign.

Gen. A. J. Smith said to a Post-Dispatch representative to-day that he would not inder any circumstances accept a seat in the school Board. He is on the Silk Stocking Republican ticket, and Secretary Player of the chool Board says it is now too late to take off his name and insert that of another. Besides, the Republican Committee does not seem to desire to place another name on the cicket in lieu of Gen. Smith.

Gen. Smith was nominated by the convention that met at Addington Hall on the 15th inst., and two days later, when he was oficially informed of his nomination, he addressed a letter declining the nomination to the late Chairman George Bain, who was erty illness which resulted in his death on the 22d inst. This letter read as follows;

That letter was written two days after the convention and I feel sure the committee knew that I could not accept the nomination. I am sorry they did not acc on this matter before this time."

Secretary Player said when told that Gen. Smith would not accept, that it was too late to make a change in the tickets and pollbooks. "The ballots are printed," he said, "and likewise the poll-books. If Gen. Smith is elected he will, I take it, have to resign if he does not care to serve."

Abraham Slupsky, one of the Republican committeemen, said: "We knew nothing about the declination until last night. If we had known sooner we would have had no troube filling the vacancy. As it is I guess Gen. Smith will have to stay on the ticket."

After to night's ratification it is expected that the Executive Committee will take same action toward straightening out matters.

Snyder's Reply to Candidate Healy, H. M. Snyder of the Nineteenth Ward makes the following reply to the statements contained in a recent card signed by M. F. Healy, one of the School Board candidates in the Eleventh District. Mr. Snyder's answer reads as follows: To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A few words in regard to M. F. Healy's card of the 28th inst. I would not notice it at oll if Mr. Healy were not a candidate for the School Board for the district in which I live. He says that the first ticket was headed "Democratic Ticket Nineteenth Ward," and every name on it was a Democrat, but there was not one a better Democratic than John Clark. The other, also a Democratic ticket, was headed with large letters, "Regular Democratic Ticket."

Then Mr. Healy says another was headed "Republican Ticket," which is not true, the only heading being "Nineteenth Ward."
Those ballots, he says, were removed by a says, were says, were says, were a says, were sa "Republican Ticket," which is not true, the only heading being "Nineteenth Ward." Those ballots, he says, were removed by a vote of the Board of Judges. Be this as it may, Mr. Healy is the one that took them from the board. Inclosed I send you the tickets with the Mayor's indorsement on both, signed George W. Allen. Also Mr. Leverett Bell as City Counselor, pronouncing the tickets both legal. Now, with this authority I went back to the precinct, showed bim the authority, and Mr. Healy did not molest them the remainder of the day, as I put them on the board and was back to the polling place some five or six times to see that the voters could get the ballots if they wanted one with John Clark's name on it, and during the day I saw not less than ten or fifteen voters take one of the ballots and hand them in to the Judges of Precinct 93, who were supposed to put them in the box. Perhaps Mr. Healy, after the polls closed, decided that the ballots were liegal, and did not count those with John Clark's name on. If Mr. Healy and the rest could take legal tickets off the board they could refuse to count them. One word more. I would not keep Mr. Healy from getting all the votes he can. He is in the book business, or was lately, and should he be elected now he would look to that interest. He would devote all of his great talent to it.

There is a Republican squabble in the Eighth District, composed of the Fourteenth and Sixteenth Wards. Mr. Wennecker in a letter to this paper dated Oct. 30 stated in explanation of the charges that he had brought out Louis Hild in opposition to Mr. Thos. Burke, the Republican candidate, that Hild was nominated in a non-partisan manner at a meeting of the Northwestern Improvement Association and received the indorsement of Mr. Allenberg, the Republican Central Committeeman for the Sixteenth Ward, who was present. Clerk Tom Barrett of the House of Delegates and one of the leaders of the Fourteenth Ward "push" was out looking out on Washington avenue, so the story goes, talking politics with a party of friends, goes, talking politics with a party of friends, when Howard Good came along with several companions. They stopped and chatted for awhile and then one of Mr. Goad's friends introduced him to Barrett. The Clerk of the House of Delegates, it appears, was not in the pleasantest humor at the time and did not like the way Mr. Good acknowledged the introduction. It appears that he considered Mr. Good deserving of a rebuke and he struck him in the face. Friends interfered and there was no further trouble. Both men, with the help of their friends, kept the matter quiet, until to-day, when it leaked out at the City Hall.

A Man Who Was Robbed of a Big Sum of Money in St. Louis Gets Into Trouble in Denver-Arrested for Stealing a Bicycle-Prisoners Taken to the

can not be convicted for trespassing in a

Juage Morris' famous decision that a man can not be convicted for trespassing in a church, as the house of God is the refuge of sinners, has been taken advantage of by tramps and loafers to such an extent that the temples of worship are apt to become lodgeng-houses for these gentlemen of ease.

For some time past Dr. Niccolis' Presbyterian Church, on Saventeonth street and Lucas place, has suffored from a series of petty thefts. They were becoming so numerous that things began looking mighty dark for the sexton. That individual determined to lift the cloud that hung over his fair name by entrapping the burglar. With this purpose in view he hid himself in the clurch last night determined to bring to light the mystery. In the darkness of the temple heard strange noises, the passing of footsteps and opening doors as if some one familiar with the place was walking about. The sexton is a brave man and made a prolonged search but failed to discover the prowher. He was determined, however, that there was some one in if the building. This morning he notified Dr. Nicholis of his suspicious and the patrol wagno was summoned from the Four Courts, Rev. Dr. Portous happened along as the hoodlum drove up happened along as from again, and this time in Denver, where he was arrested on a charge of fraud. He was released on his own recognizance and he then skipped out. Jenkins was first heard of in this city on the evening of July 30, when he walked into the Chief's office at the Four Courts and said he had been robbed of $3,500 at the Union Depot. He said his name was Jenkins and that he was a solicitor of subscriptions and advertisements for an afternoon paper in this city, with the State of Illinois as his territory. In the morning he started out with 1,200, he said, and went to Godfrey, Ill., where he secured about $800 on closing a real estate deal and collected $900 or $1,000 on a note in East St. Louis. He claimed that at both places he saw two men watching him, and that he again saw them at the Union Depot in this city. One of them knocked against him, and a few minutes later he missed his wallet from his hip pocket. Jenkins became so mixed up while he was trying to explain how he came to have so much money on his person that the police laughed at him and at once surmised that he had a motive in telling the story. It now seems he had. The following day he sent a note to the Chief saying he had found the money. He left town and in the telegraph columns of last Thursday's paper was an item from Deuver telling of his arrest there on a charge of fraud and of his departure from the city while upon his own recognizance. Mrs. R. Gowan of 1616 Pine street saw the fitem and called at the Four Courts yesterday. She said Jenkins had defrauded her of $220 in White Hail, Green County, Ill., on July 29 last. A few days prior to that date he had agreed to sell her property for her and she gave him $20 to close the bargain with the third party. He gave her his note for the amount and disappeared. A few hours before Mrs. Gowan's visit to the Four Courts yesterday, a letter was received by Chief Harrigan from Chief Keeth of Denver, Colo., asking if Jenkins was wanted here and what his appeared. A few hours before Mrs. Gowan's visit to the Four Courts yesterday, a letter was received by Chief Harrigan from Chief Keeth of Denver, Colo., asking if Jenkins was wanted here and what his record was. Mrs. Gowan was shown the photograph and at once identified Jenkins. In Denver he told the police his name was John Mermod Jaccard, and was a member of the family of that name here. He told such a plausible story the police let him go on his promise to return when wanted. Chief Desmond thinks Jenkins is a "good man," or at least is building up the reputation of being one of Natt Jones' class.

THE BIERNE DISASTER.

The Bodies of Nine Unfortunate Victims Recovered.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 31 .- Chief Bookkeeper W. M. McCully was recalled at the pening of the Woodruff trial this morning to explain matters connected with the books of the the Auditor's office. In the progress of the examination the fact came out that McCuily fall, and it is thought that it will exceed that examination the fact came out that McCuily of 1889, when nearly 20,000,000 bushels were had not on the records various figures which xplain matters connected with the books of the Auditor's office. In the progress of the examination the fact came out that McGuily had put on the records various figures which were not there when the books were introduced at the opening of the trial. Counsel for defense subjected him to a rigid examination; he explained by saying he had simply added up a number of rows of figures in order to make the balance sheet more intelligible. Woodruff's attorney's then objected to the introduction of the books as evidence, but Judge Lea overruled the objection, holding that the books, as they first appeared, without the alterations since made, were good evidence, and that in their original state the jury could take cognizance of them.

quake which occurred in that country on Wednesday last destroyed the towns of Najoya, Gifu and Ogaki. All of the public buildings and most of the smaller structures were thrown down. A fire started in the wrecked district in Naloya and completed the work of destruction. It is estimated that 3,000 lives were lost. Many vessels are reported to have been lost in the vicinity of Hiogo in consequence of the seismic disturbances, and the waters in the lakes of the surrounding country were violently agitated. Few Europeans lost their lives. The wagon roads are blocked, railroads are suspended and the telegraph wires communicating with the wrecked districts are all down, so that communication is difficult.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 31.-Capt. Spaulding of the schooner M. Luella Wood of Rockland, at this port from Baltimore, reports that on Oct. 22, when off Smith Point on Chesapeake Bay, he saw a lum-ber-laden schooner with signals of disber-laden schooner with signals of distress flying. In the face of the awful gale he bore down on her in the hope of being able to render her some assistance, but before he could reach her the vessel foundered and all on board must have perished. He hove to in the vicinity and kept a careful watch to see if he could see anything of her crew, but nothing was seen.

REMOVING GRANT'S TOMB

It Has Taken Over Three Weeks, But Will

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 .- The work of removing the tomb of Gen. Grant to the spot where the remains will rest permanently and over which the monument is to be erected, which was begun on Oct. 7, will be completed to-day. It is a slow process, though the distance from the place where the temporary tomb has stood to the permanent site is only thirty-six feet altogether—twenty-seven feet to the north and then nine feet to the west. But a great deal of care is necessary. The P. Galling, the mover, is under $40,000 bonds to perform the work satisfactorily, which means that the tomb must be intact when it means that the tomb must be intact when it reaches its destination.

The tomb is traveling northward along three heavy timber rails. It rests on wooden cross pieces and is propelled by means of jackscrews at a speed of less than a foot an hour. The former position of the tomb was nine feet below the surface of the permanent concrete foundation for the monument. It took until last Thursday to raise it to the level of the surface and then its journey northward began. Sixteen feet had been traveled yesterday afternoon and the tomb was as solid as when it was stationary.

terday afternoon and the tomb was as solid as when it was stationary.

The concrete foundation for the monument is to be 107 feet square. It will be composed of four pieces twenty feet deep. Three of the pieces have been completed. The removal of the tomb was necessary at this time to permit of the building of the fourth pier at the southeast corner. When the foundation is finished it will contain 4,600 yards of concrete and will cost about $50,000. The surface of the foundation is 130 feet above tide water. The top of the monument will be forty-two feet above that. The foundation will be completed in a few weeks. Work upon the superstructure will not begin until next spring.

ROBBING AN ASSOCIATION.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31 .- Just now the method by which Fulton Building Association No. 4 was robbed in eight years of $13,773.71 by W. tograph and at once identified Jenkins. In Denver he told the police his name was John Mermod Jaccard, and was a member of the family of that name here. He told such a plausible story the police let him go on his promise to return when wanted. Chief Desmond thinks Jenkins is a "good man," or at least is building up the reputation of being one of Natt Jones' class.

Oats for Europe.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.-The exportation o of 1889, when nearly 20,000,000 bushels were sent abroad. Charters were made in this city last Wednesday for ships to take out 9,000,000 bushels, the greater part by Counselman & Co., who have hired eighteen vessels. Other houses are also doing a large business. The heavy exportation is due to the short crop in Europe. It is stated in private cable dispatches recently received in this city that Russia, from which country England draws a large part of her supply of oats, will prohibit the export of her cereals. If such action is taken the price of oats and wheat will advance considerably in this country and the exportation will be largely increased.

POND'S EXTRACT

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS: A PROMINENT NEW YORK PHY. SICIAN SAYS:

> "There is nothing better to relieve the PAIN and ITCHING, and CAUSE RETRACTION of PILES, than POND'S EXTRACT and POND'S EXTRACT OINTMENT. Either the fluid or the ointment has the astringent and soothing effect required, and is a very useful preparation. In fact for this purpose they are best used together."

WHAT THE PATIENT SAYS:

"For 40 years I have been an in describable sufferer with the PILES. Every known remedy I have tried, all of which had a tendency to alleviate, not cure. First attacked with BLIND PILES, which annoyed me for years; BLEEDING PILES followed, which frequently confined me to the bed, leaving me unfit for business. Within a few days they have attacked me in full force, and that most excruciating of the hemorrhoid family, the ITCHING PILES, superseded both. Having become possessed of some POND'S EXTRACT, I applied it freely, undiluted. Had Heaven and Earth come together I would not have been more surprised. I never dreamed of a cure. Three times only have I resorted to POND'S EXTRACT, and the ITCHING PILES vanished as if by magic. I am fully convinced that it is the only known remedy in the wide world for the ITCHING PILES. My statement is unsolicited." — THOMAS S. MURPHY, Olmstedville, N. Y

He reappeared with the Toledo team last season, reappeared with the roleud team hast senson, where he did good work. When the latter organization was turned loose from the Association and disbanded last spring Nicholson went out West and Joined the Sloux City team, where, according to reports, he put up phenomenal ball. He is a clean fielder, but was never counted as much of a hitter.

THE NEW CHICAGO CLUB'S PROSPECT. The Chicago Association team is having a much harder time signing players, at least those that they claimed would wear their uniforms next season, than they expected. The team was announced as follows: Kittredge, Hutchison, Gumbert, Rusie, Hart, Beckley, Pfeffer, Shugart, Browning, Wilmot and Hoy. Of the above the only man so far who has been signed is said to be Pitcher Hart. Pfeffer's connection with the club is settled, though, beyond a doubt. His present contract with spaiding will run out next February when he will sign an Association contract. Outside of these two men the new "Windy City team" is, in the language of a League crank, "a castle in the air aggregation." Still, there is lots of time yet, and a New York dispatch yesterday stated that Messrs. J. B. Day and Manager Murrie would leave the metropolis in a few days for Indianapolis to induce Pitcher Amos Rusie to come to terms. The latter is said to have all but accepted the offer Pfeffer made him and will sign as soon as Buckley, regular catcher, is signed. Pfeffer is now engaged in trying to induce Buckley to sign with him, which, it is said by parties who ought to know, will not be a hard job as the New York catcher has been dissatisfied with the way he was treated in Gotham the past season, the management paying Ewing a fabulous salary for holding down the bench, while Buckley was compelled to do all the work for a much smaller amount. uch harder time signing players, at least

THE TURF.

It is again said, but cannot be confirmed et, that Trainer Rodgers has severed his connection with the stable of Capt. 8. 8. Brown. Peter Wimmer is mentioned as his successful as Rodgers when we take into consideration the quality of horses in his control. He could, without being challenged, rest his fame on the record he made in handling Troubadour, but he has done many clever things since that time. Rodgers has a few horses of his own, and may open a public stable. He is moderately wealthy and may not care for additional work, but if he is in the market he will have no trouble in signing with any one of five wealthy gentlemen who are just now seeking the most competent men in the market.

AN OPINION OF MAHER. "Of course it is impossible to form a decisive opinion of Maher's abilities by his Philadelphia performance when he boxed with the locals Davis and Daly, but I saw enough to satisfy me that he is no match for John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Paddy Slavin or Peter Jackson," says Mason McCormack a well-know puglistic writer. "I think he ought to give a good account of himself with Jim Hall, the Australian or his fellow countryman, hob Fitsimmons. He ought to be able to do Billy Woods of Denver, and I think he would make a fair showing with Jake Kilrain. He and Joe Choyinski ought to make a great fight. He may be the 'Irish Champion,' but there is very little danger of his becoming the 'Champion of America' in a hurry. Personally he is a modest, unassuming fellow, fond of sociability and conviviality, and I bespeak him a warm welcome whenever he may appear. He was given a rousing reception in Philadelphia, and it seemed to touch him to the core. "Let's play 'Clap him out!' " said Nora Donly, who seemed to be ring-leader in the fun.

"The a handkerchief around Bess' arm and play she is a boy," said Freddy Jones, who liked Bess because she was such a romp. But Miss Bess was on her dignity that evening. She tossed her brown curls, switched her new blue dress and said "No, she wouldn't play boy!"

Then of course no other girl would. If Bess was too good to play boy, the rest of them were too good.

"Oh, pshaw!" pouted Nora, "Its too bad! Clap him out is a lovely game. You put all the girls in one room and all the boys in another, and then a girl chooses who shall come and sit by her, and if the wrong boy comes all the girls clap their hands and say "Clap him out! clap him out!"

"I can get another boy," said Stella.

Every one looked surprised. "Where will you get him?" they asked.

"I'll get Dick. He's the janitor's son, and he's real nice."

"He'll not come this late if he's got any grit in him!" said Freddy Jones.

"I'll go see if he'll come," said Stella.

"If he does he's not got any grit!" said Freddy, swaggering around with his hands in his pockets.

"I guess he's got just as much grit as you,

"He'd have to dress up," said his mother, who saw that he was inclined to go.
"On, no he won't!" Stella said. "It would take so long, and he already looks nicer than Freddy Jones. Freddy's got on his sundayschool clothes, but they are too tight for him and shiny at the knees and elbows."

"I'll do, mother," said Dick. Then he got up and brushed his hair, and, taking Stella's hand, said: "Come along, little girl."
In half an hour he was the life of the party.
He had read much and knew all about the witches and saints and fairles and brownies who walk on Hallowe'en night, and the storks which put little bables in baskets on doorsteps. Then the brownies and fairles see who can get to the baby first. If

"Let's keep All Hallow E'en!" said Bess. "All right!" chimed a chorus. "What shall we do!"

"What shall we do!"

"Everything!" shouted the chorus.
"I'll tell you one charm," began Ida, taking the hairpins out of her hair and creeping across the room a la Lady Macbeth. "You must go alone at 12 o'clock at night to an unoccupied room and stand in the dark brushing your hair, looking straight ahead of you in the mirror. The man you are to marry will come up behind you and kiss you, and you will see his face in the mirror!"
"Oh, that's too creepy!" said Fannie.
"It's not as bad as the hempseed," said Dora. "You have to go alone to a church where you can walk clear around it. You do this, sowing hempseed as you go, and saying."

this, sowing hempseed as you go, and saying:

"Hempseed, hempseed, here I sow,
Hoping my true love may come and mow;
I'll sow it wide and I'll sow it deep.

A harvest of blessings my love shall reap.

"Then you walk home and go to bed without saying a word, and the first one you dream about will be your future husband."

"I know one you have to dream about, too," said another. "You roast an egg, shell it, cut it in half, then take the yolk out and fill the space with sail. You eat the half egg and go to bed thinking of the one you love. You will be sure to dream of water, because the sait will make you thirsty. You will also dream of the man you are to marry, who will bring you the water. If he brings it in a gold cup you are going to be very rich; in a silver cup, you will be comfortably off; in a glass goblet, you will be regular paupers."

"If we were in the country I'd try the well," said Dora. "I believe there really is something in that. You know there are so many holy wells and fountains and things of that kind. Then my mother knew a girl who really did see her future husband's face in the bottom of a well, and met him at a cornhusking the very next night, and they fell in love with each other right on the spot."

"Here's a nice one, girls," someone else said: "Before going to bed you put your shoes in the form of a letter T and say:

I place my shoes in the shape of a T, Hoping to night my true love to see;

I place my shoes in the shape of a T, Hoping to-night my true love to see; Not in gaudy apparel of rich array, But just in the clothes he wears every day. "Say, that is a nice one, and it's easy to do?" said Bess. "Then it has poetry in it. I think all charms work better if they have poetry to them. Say, girls, let's try all we know. We'll sneak up a lot of fruit and candy and chestnuts—we must not go back on the old chestnut fortune you know—and we'll begin about 10 when the old griffin is asleep." asleep."

Tap, tap, tap! came a familiar rap at the door, and "Come, come, young ladies, it is time your lights were out," said the griffin.

Then Dick showed them how to play Hallow-e'en tricks. They named chestnuts and put them on the stove, and which ever one's chestnut popped first was going to be married first. They peeled apples without breaking the skins, and standing in front of a mirror threw the skins over their shoulder on the floor, and they would shape themselves into the first letter of the name of the one they were to marry. # Does it Contain Ammonia?

The charge is being made that the Royal Baking Powder contains ammonia. We would have supposed that the emphatic condemnation of ammonia baking powders by the most eminent physicians throughout the land, and the fact of the three leading chemists of Minnesota making their report to the Senate Committee recently showing that bread baked with the "Royal" contained ammonia and the hostility now being manifested by the public against all ammonia and alum baking powders would have driven them permanently from the market.

In view of the fact that Baking Powder has become an indispensable article in every kitchen, it is gratifying to know that there are brands in the market to which no suspicion of any kind has ever attached.
